Why you should attend

Vietnam is today recognized as one of Asia’s most dynamic growth stories. With more than a dozen Free Trade Agreements (FTAs), including a landmark pact with the European Union, Vietnam provides Indian exporters a unique springboard into high-value global markets. The country is increasingly being seen as a trusted supply chain alternative, offering Indian businesses opportunities to diversify sourcing, reduce risk, and tap into new consumer bases.

For India, Vietnam holds strategic importance—not only as a fast-growing market of nearly 100 million people, but also as a gateway to ASEAN and East Asia, where regional value chains are reshaping global trade. The Vietnamese government’s proactive investment in roads, ports, and logistics infrastructure has created an enabling environment for trade. For Indian businesses, this translates into a chance to expand footprints in manufacturing, services, textiles, engineering, pharmaceuticals, IT, tourism, and agribusiness.

In view of the ongoing U.S. tariff war on Indian exports, it becomes all the more crucial for our businesses to explore alternative markets and partnerships. Vietnam stands out as a natural partner to compensate for potential losses from U.S. markets, offering both access to ASEAN and integration into global supply chains.

This session promises to provide valuable insights into how Indian enterprises can leverage Vietnam as a partner in expansion, diversification, and long-term growth.

Kindly note there is NO PARTICIPATION FEE. However, prior registration is necessary.
