Dear Sir/ Madam,

Day and Date: Monday, January 30, 2023

Time: 4:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Steel is an industrial metal of varied uses. Steel consumption positively correlates with economic growth. While China is the world's largest producer, India is by far the second largest producer and consumer. Steel demand in India has been rising. With massive investments planned for infrastructure development - roads, highways, airports, seaports, housing, railways, defense and so on - demand for steel is set for a major expansion in our country.

Steel market is subject to several drivers - both domestic and global. By their very nature, commodity markets are volatile, and steel is no exception. It is necessary to manage the price risks in the physical market through hedging by using a Futures Contract. It can be used for commodity investment too.

The program seeks to educate physical market participants, investors and others about the dynamics of the steel market so that buying / selling / trading decisions are well informed, scientific and cost-effective.
